About Us

Baraka Roses is a Kenyan company established in 2011. The farm was created from a rich heritage of family farming and experience since the 1960s. The farm has continued the family tradition, endeavoring to create a family atmosphere and a sense of belonging for all our employees.

Location

The Baraka Roses farm is 35 hectares, located in Nyandarua County, at 2250 Meters above sea level, it is an ideal altitude for quality roses.

Our Quality

We aim for quality. Experienced growers and consultants have been engaged to establish the best practices in all aspects of growing, to produce stems that match the highest world standards

Trials

We have different varieties in our Trial House where detailed study is made on each variety in order to determine the suitability of the variety to the farm's unique geographical conditions.

Propagation

We believe quality starts at the propagation stage, when the future of the plant is determined. We therefore established our own propagation houses, which are professionally run, with high standards of hygiene and sanitation. We have capacity to propagate plants for five hectares at a time, thus sufficiently supplying plants for all our planting requirements.

Mix of Nature and Technology

We are open to the latest technology as well as the best nature can offer in the process of feeding our roses.

Post Harvest

We endeavor to protect our flowers during harvesting, transport from field to pack-house and to customers. We work with our freight agent to ensure that the cold chain is observed all the way from the farm to the eventual destination. Our aim is to ensure that our customers receives the flowers in the best condition possible.

A bouquet of flowers in a clear glass vase. The bouquet features several large, white roses, a few pink carnations, and greenery including ferns and small pink flowers. The vase is filled with water, and the stems of the flowers are visible. The background is a dark, textured surface.

Vase Life

We monitor our product from field to shelf through stringent vase life testing. Observations are recorded and product behaviour, and any concerns noted and addressed..

About Us

The Baraka Roses farm is a Kenyan company established in 2011. The farm was created from a rich heritage of family farming and experience since the 1960s. The farm has continued the family tradition, endeavoring to create a family atmosphere and a sense of belonging for all our employees.

COMMUNITY AND ENVIRONMENT

We are committed to preserving a healthy environment for future generations. The Baraka farm's special geographical location and unpolluted air attracts an amazing array of birds that beautify the environment and endorse our partnership with nature. The farm is also a kind and generous host to millions of fish, birds and livestock including sheep, cattle and donkeys that thrive in the natural surroundings

We have embraced the Ngorika community as evidenced by the growing social responsibility activities and partnerships, for example, we provide free firewood once a week and support the local area road maintenance program. We also facilitate financing of small-scale projects for our employees through various SACCOs and finance companies.

At Baraka Roses we acknowledge our responsibility towards orphans and destitute children. That is why we passionately support the Wema Centre, a Mombasa based rehabilitation program for street children.

A close-up photograph of a bouquet of flowers. The main focus is on several large, light pink roses with many layers of petals, some showing a slight gradient to a darker pink at the edges. Interspersed among the roses are clusters of small, delicate purple flowers, likely baby's breath. The background is softly blurred, showing more of the same flowers. The overall color palette is soft and romantic, dominated by pinks and purples.
